ONLINE CATALOG

<https://koha.urbeuniversity.edu>

The screenshot shows the URBE University library online catalog interface. At the top, there is a navigation bar with the URBE logo, a shopping cart icon, and a 'Lists' menu. On the right side of the bar, there are links for 'Log in to your account', 'Search history', and a 'Close' button. Below the navigation bar is a search bar containing the text 'business ethics' and a 'Go' button. Underneath the search bar, there are links for 'Advanced search', 'Course reserves', 'Authority search', 'Purchase suggestions', and 'Library'. The main content area shows the search results for 'business ethics'. It indicates that the search returned 23 results and found 4600 results in the library's OpenLibrary collection. The results are displayed in a list format, with the first two items visible. Each item includes the title, author(s), edition, publisher, and availability information. There are also options to 'Place hold' or 'Add to cart' for each item. The interface includes a 'Refine your search' sidebar on the left with filters for Availability, Authors, Collections, Non-fiction, Item types, Locations, General Stacks, and Series. The bottom of the screenshot shows a Windows taskbar with various application icons and a system tray with the time and date.

TIPS FOR SEARCHING IN DATABASES

Explore the database's "Advanced Search" or "Expert Search." There, you will find ways to improve or focus your search.

To figure out the correct terminology, explore the database's "thesaurus." Or, find one good article, and look at the "Subject" words or "Keyword" tags that are used to describe the topic of the article. Use words from the thesaurus and subject tags in your search.

Many advanced search screens provide 2-3 boxes, allowing you to combine topics. Usually, you should use one box for each concept or variable. For example, if you are searching for "diabetes in kids," type "diabetes" in the first (top) box, and "children" in the second box (underneath the first box).

To find more articles, try synonyms combined with "OR" (in capital letters). For example, "children OR juvenile OR youth" will find more articles than simply "children."

Use an asterisk () to search for variations from a root word. For example, child will find articles with the words child, children, or childhood. This "truncation" search usually finds more articles.

UNIVERSITY

TIPS FOR SEARCHING IN DATABASES

To find fewer articles, use "limiters." Most databases allow you to check-off options for peer-reviewed articles, the publication date, and language

To left or right side of the search boxes, you may see drop-downs that may allow you to focus your search on the title or abstract of the article. In many databases, this can be a helpful way to narrow down your search.

After you search, make sure that the database is listing articles according to "relevance," instead of publication date

Usually, the first search you attempt is not the best one. Try a variety of strategies. Take photos or print out your search screens to keep track of which words and limiters you have already used.

Explore the database's "help" or "support" links to learn additional tips.

If you need more help, contact your librarian or visit Urbe Library Webpage, into the section: Ask a Librarian

PLAGIARISM

“The good use you give to other people's information is to work honestly!”

What is Plagiarism?

The submission of material authored by another person but represented as the student's own work, whether that material is paraphrased or copied in verbatim or near-verbatim form

The submission of material subjected to editorial revision by another person that results in substantive changes in content or major alteration of writing style.

Improper acknowledgment of sources in essays or papers
